It's a Mistake To Delay Your Purchase of a NEW EDISON

THE EDISON TONE TEST

Most everything you buy wears out eventually. An automobile for example—or a suit of clothes. So the longer you delay its purchase the longer you have it to enjoy.

Not so with a New Edison. It will outlive you anyway. Every month you delay is just one more month gone from your life—another month in which you might have had your life enriched by music—but didn't.

Under our new plan of payment, by which payments can be made so much a month there's no reason why you shouldn't be enjoying your New Edison right now.

Call to-morrow for a demonstration. "Send it to the house" will be your verdict.

SKI CLUB IS WAITING FOR SNOW TO COME

Record Attendance Out At Initial Meeting.

WINTER CARNIVAL.

Trips To Laurentians May Be Indulged In During the Best Of Skiing Season.

The McGill Ski Club has "come back," and that with a rush that out does everything of pre-war skiing days. At the annual meeting held at the Hall yesterday, the number of enthusiasts present was so large that the majority of men were forced to stand. This excellent and vigorous support stands out in pleasing contrast with the club's meetings of past years, when the attendance of six or seven was the average, and when ten or twelve was a record. Yesterday's meeting saw almost fifty men out, and these nearly all able and enthusiastic skiers. Several returned men, who in past winters have represented McGill at Dartmouth, were out, and they are all keener and more enthusiastic than ever before. With them as a backbone, and with all the new members to be yet developed, the Ski Club is sure to keep up the good work in intercollegiate sport, and it, too, will be up on top with her sister clubs of the McGill A.A.A.

The president, H. Wilder, was in the chair, and, after opening the meeting, he called on the secretary, D. Anderson, to explain the position of the club as a member-elect of the Athletic Association. This gives the club added prestige and ensures the popularity and support of the student body. In future, all men contesting in intercollegiate meets will receive recognition from the College in the shape of McGill "M's." It also ensures financial support from the Council, and this fact ensures the buying of rights to one of the local ski-jumps and mountain club-house.

The possibilities of having one of the championship men do some coaching for the team were discussed, and in all probability, something will be done in that direction. A motion was passed that the club have regular meetings for runs and jumps on a definite day throughout the season. It was also moved unanimously that the programme for the season include one or two trips to the Laurentians for a week-end of skiing. This should prove a most popular feature, for a few days of mountain hiking as a college body, under college influence, is one of the best possible means to ensure college spirit and success for the club.

MEETING OF ARTS SENIORS COMING

Business To Mingle With Pleasure, Entertainment and Refreshments.

The McGill hockey season will open on Monday with a general meeting for all who are interested in the game. The chief features of this meeting, which will be at five o'clock, in the Union, will be the election of officers and some announcements by Shaughnessy on the work for the season.

The first practice will take place on Tuesday, and a large turnout of men who hope to be on the team is expected. Prominent members of the team are the following: Hemy, Flanagan, Anderson, Behan, Cully, Gallery, Dineen, Hall, N. and L. Timmins, Notman, Lally, Lyall, Montgomery, Russell, McLaughlin Hall, McDonald and Parsons.

Training will take place in the Union, where the men will practise shooting at the pockets of a net, and at the new Mount Royal Arena, which opens on December the twenty-fifth, and at which special hours will be reserved for McGill practices.

With regard to the programme for the season, there will be Senior, Junior and Intermediate teams, which will enter the Intercollegiate Series with Toronto, Queen's and R.M.C. Two teams also have been entered in the City League. In addition to this, the executive of the club hope to complete a round of all the principal universities in the Eastern States during the Christmas holidays, and already applications have been received from Canadian and American universities as far west as Winnipeg and Chicago, desiring McGill's participation in the exhibition game to be held at Chicago. In fact, all the signs point to a very strenuous and successful season.

REPRESENTATIVES WILL BE ELECTED

Nominations To Take Place This Month For Representatives on Students Council.

Monday, December the first, is the date chosen by the Council on which all nominations for Faculty representatives to the Council must be in. The elections will be held on the following Monday, December the eighth, at the Union. The representatives to be elected are four in number, one from Arts, one from Science, one from Medicine and a fourth from Law.

These men will represent their faculty on the executive of the Students' Society from the first of January, 1920, to the first of January, 1921, at which date the present representatives resign.

These positions are among the most important in undergraduate affairs, and the selection of nominees for the offices should not be made without careful consideration and forethought. For several years a number of offices have been filled by acclamation, but this no doubt was due to war conditions. A large number of nominations are expected to be handed in and this is as it should be, as plenty of competition is a healthy thing in any election.

DENTISTRY MEN HOLD MEETING

Decided To Have Smoker Instead Of Dance.

A meeting of representatives of First Year Dentistry with the Secretary of the Dental Society, was held on Wednesday, when it was decided to hold a smoker instead of a dance previously arranged. Owing to the allotted number of dances for the season having been already arranged, it was found impossible to follow out the original plan, but the projected smoker is receiving very satisfactory support, and there is no reason why it should not prove a huge success. The date has not yet been definitely decided, but will take place sometime during the first week in December. The men entrusted with the arrangements intend to do all in their power to make this event a lively one, and hope to introduce some novel features not seen before in functions of this kind. Any dental student who has a talent for entertainment, or who knows of any other man in the same faculty who is gifted, is requested to hand his name in to the Secretary of the Dental Society, Mr. Velth. The exact date of the smoker will be announced in the columns of the "Daily" at an early date.

FASCINATING DEBATE HELD IN THE HALL

Science '23 Debated Against Arts '23.

DR. TAIT JUDGED.

Affirmative Won Argument In Favor Of An Established Labor Party in Canada.

An intensely interesting debate was held last night in Strathcona Hall between Science '23 and Arts '23 on the subject: "Resolved, That the time is right for the formation of a party in Canada principally devoted to the interests of Labor." Stevens and Bradshaw, of Science '23, upheld the affirmative, while Walters and Ballantyne spoke for the negative. Dr. Tait, Professor of Psychology, acted as judge.

Farthing, president of the "Lit." acted as chairman of the meeting. He introduced the speakers with a reference to the small attendance, which was due to the weather and the lack of advertising of the debate. One of the speakers was given only four hours' notice that he would have to take part.

Stevens, leader of the affirmative, opened his remarks by briefly reviewing the topic of debate. He then very clearly and concisely divided his material into four parts: 1. What is Canada's policy and aim as a nation? 2. Is it in the best interests of Canada to investigate the conditions of labor with the idea of making better and more loyal citizens of them? 3. For this purpose, is it necessary to form a party devoted to labor interests? 4. What benefits are to be derived from such a party? Stevens himself dealt with the first three divisions of his topic. Bradshaw took charge of the fourth. Stevens insisted that Canada is now a nation, and that it is her duty to fulfill the tasks of a nation. She has great resources, yet we cannot have them worked on account of lack of labor. For production, a contented people is necessary. A labor party will content the people, therefore the time is ripe for a labor party in Canada. The existing parties in Canada are not sufficient, for, though the laborers in Canada have not had to revolt, as they did in Russia, yet they have good reason for discontent. Wages have not been increased in ratio to the increase of living expenses, and this is due to government by capital; and in rare cases labor has followed Bolshevism, it is due to lack of education, and the lack of education is, in turn, due to capital, which will not let labor have

WRESTLERS HOLD SNAPPY WORKOUT

Much Interest Shown — Men Improve In Skill and Speed.

The wrestlers held their usual Thursday afternoon practice at 5.15 sharp yesterday. The turnouts continue to grow, and the men appear to be very enthusiastic over their work. Yesterday many of the men were at the Union at five, so a few of the early birds had an opportunity to warm up before they began practice in earnest.

After the roll was called, the men reviewed their old work at weight-lifting and body-balancing. This work continued for about twenty-five minutes, and included all the movements used in manoeuvring for a favorable position, which had previously been practised.

Following this work, the men worked the chancery hold for a short time. Afterwards bridging and rolling were practised and worked from all possible positions. The inner and outer half Nelsons and counters to these holds were also practised.

After this, the wrestlers fell in around the mat and prepared for a good two-minute bout. In these bouts a wrestler's faults are brought out and corrected, enabling the men to know just where they are wrong. From all appearances, the men are shaping into condition very rapidly, both in skill and physique.

College Journalism

We are going to violate our customary modesty for once and write a few lines about ourselves. The fact that other people discuss our shortcomings and our successes without restraint only makes it seem more reasonable that, once in a very long time, we should be permitted to express an opinion or a sentiment relative to our own editorial selves.

Despite the fact that practically every college or university on the continent has an undergraduate publication of some sort, the term "college journalism" would doubtless be regarded by many as a trifle euphuistic. The undergraduate paper, in the eyes of the professoriate, is, generally speaking, an amateurish production, commendable enough as a student institution but not for an instant to be taken seriously, and as for "college journalism" . . .

We now deal in generalities, and happily, there are notable exceptions which tend to make the lot of the college journalist a little more tolerable.

The attitude of the undergraduate himself is rather different. He recognizes to a certain extent the importance of maintaining his college publication, enjoys the privilege of leisurely glancing over its columns, and to some extent relies upon it for news of current events. The fact, however, that he has never been deprived of it, precludes his having even a vague idea of what undergraduate life would be without the college paper. His interest as a rule is passive, and being without individual responsibility in the matter, he gives very little thought to the task of editing the sheet.

The natural result of this attitude, typical of the undergraduate body is that a small minority, who are interested to some extent along such lines, assume the entire responsibility for the maintenance of the undergraduate paper. This is possibly an inevitable state of affairs, for, after all, very few men are sufficiently interested in such work or are so inclined. The deplorable fact is, not that a very small minority bears the burden, but that, all things considered the support tendered the undergraduate paper by the student body is in nowise proportionate to the importance of the institution.

A sane consideration of actual circumstances must reveal to the unprejudiced person the fact that "college journalism" is not exactly a joke. The medium which gives expression to the sentiments of a university and which records its daily activities is more than a toy. Granted that there are imperfections, inconsistencies and shortcomings, still, when the fact that those who have in charge the editing of the college paper must of necessity assume such responsibility in addition to their academic work, and that absolutely no concession is granted to them in recognition of such service, when these facts are considered, fairness must decree that the college journalist is at least worthy of the recognition of even the serious-minded.

COMING CARUSOS CAUSE CACOPHONY

The Theologians in the Presbyterian College are nothing if not ambitious. For some time past they have, unofficially, of course, devoted considerable time and attention to that expressive form of music known as "part-singing"—so-called, because one part sings while the other moans in unison. Lately this form of noise-making assumed such a general character, that a spirit of rivalry sprang up between the various "flats" of the College as to which possessed the best (or at least the noisiest) quartette. Accordingly, the singers resident on the Morrisie flat challenged all other flats to a singing contest, the teams to be limited (mercifully, as it proved) to four men each. Two other flats took up the challenge, and three intrepid souls having been discovered who declared themselves willing to assume the onerous duties of judges, a "singing contest" in connection with the College "Lit" was arranged for last evening.

To an impartial observer, it would seem to be impossible to praise too highly the fortitude of the audience and the arbiters. However much theologians may have to depend upon their vocal organs for a livelihood, it soon became evident that their "motet" was not the production of musical sounds. Seldom, if ever, have the quiet corridors of the Presbyterian resounded with such distressing cacophonies, and cotton wool, if procurable, would have fetched a dollar an ounce from the long-suffering audience. Each of three quartettes perpetrated their selections in turn, their efforts being strangely reminiscent of a storm at sea, while others resembled nothing so much as a chorus of cats in direct agony. At length, however, the diabolic repertoire was concluded, and the Judges, who seemed a trifle dazed, after a whispered conference, declared that the "French Quartette," composed of Messrs. J. Bieler, Chazaud, Martineau and Lariviere, were the least reprehensible performers, and were accordingly awarded the palm. It is earnestly hoped by all Presbyterian College students, as well as the neighbors, that now that the respective merits (or rather demerits) of the various informal choirs have been definitely decided, there will once more ensue a "peace which passeth understanding."

GOOD SPIRIT EVIDENT FOR COMING GAME

Play On Ground Deep In Snow.

STIFF PRACTICES.

Tickets Issued For Junior Game At Stadium, Saturday.

In a field two inches deep in snow, and frozen hard, the Second and Third teams turned out yesterday to practise for their coming championship games. Many of the players were so muffled up in sweaters and pads to keep out the bitter weather that they were almost unrecognizable, in fact, an onlooker would have been led to believe that the men were training for an expedition to the Polar regions and not for a football game. Many were the toes and fingers frozen, and the hot showers were popular after the practice.

The teams first kicked the ball around to get warm, and ran around the track. Then "Shag" and "Dud" Ross appeared and lined the teams up. Shaughnessy taking the Second squad and "Dud" the Thirds. The men were put through a stiff signal drill, running through the same plays over and over again till the players were letter perfect. The Third team were given several new trick plays, and judging from the snap with which the plays were performed, they should prove very useful on Saturday. In the meantime, Shag and the Second team were tearing up and down the field, running through their formations with a vim which showed that their heart was in their work, and that they were out to clinch the championship.

After about a half an hour's signals, Shag called the Third team over, and gave the Second team the ball. He cautioned the players not to tackle each other, as he is taking no chances on any men being hurt. The Intermediates, with their heavier wing line, found no difficulty in tearing wide holes through their opponents, but the manner in which several of the plays were performed did not suit the coach, and he administered several sharp rebukes to the offending players. The Third team then obtained possession of the ball, and although trying very hard could not make much impression on the line of their heavier opponents. However, against a team their own size, the Juniors can be relied on to give a good account of themselves.

Wilson showed up well on the half line for the Intermediates, while L. Parsons and Macdonald did some fine bucking. Eric Parsons handled the team with his usual zest, and is confident that the team can overcome the five point lead next Saturday. Taylor and Lyall did some good bucking for the Thirds, while Hamilton, who has been out of the game with a strained leg, kicked with his old skill.

The Intermediates will not practise to-morrow, but will meet at the Union for dinner at 6.00, and will hold a short signal practice there after dinner. They leave for Toronto at 11 o'clock, where they play Varsity Seconds for the Intercollegiate championship. They have been greatly strengthened by Messrs. Parsons and Marsh Kern from the Seniors, and are confident that they will come out on top.

The line-ups yesterday were:

The Juniors play their big game on Saturday afternoon at the Stadium with Railroad Y.M.C.A. for the Junior Championship of Quebec Province. They have a fine record this season winning all their games so far, and having the unique honor of not having a touch-down scored on them this season. The men are in fine condition, and feel sure that they will win handily. The game starts at 2.30, and an admission fee of 25c will be charged. A good turnout of students is requested to cheer on the team who have worked hard for this game. The R.V.C. are specially requested to grace the game with their presence.

The Senior team had their picture taken at the Stadium at 1.30 yesterday. After the picture, a meeting was held for the purpose of electing a captain for next year, Dud Ross being elected by acclamation. This is sure to be popular with the players, as Dud has shown by his wonderful playing this year that he is well fitted for the position. He has a great record in Intercollegiate football, playing on the Senior teams of 1913, 1914, and this year as well. The players and the students should be well pleased that such a good choice has been made for this responsible position.

education. A few reforms have been grudgingly conceded. What labor wants is fair, open discussion of their needs. They must have representation in the government of the country. It is only faith in the eventual good sense of the people, and trust in the educated classes, that has kept the labor class in Britain from revolution; because they see a party of their own in the near future.

Walter, leader of the negative, although only given four hours in which to prepare his part on the debate, was ready with a masterful speech, which he delivered in a calm, lucid manner, and which went a long way to bolster up the cause he was defending. He agreed that Canada is a nation, and will become a great country, but he does not forget that labor is only an element. It is not the whole population. Labor will rule as a class, because if she gets representation in a party of her own she will eventually rule. And class rule should not be. There would be conflict with other classes. Ontario has class rule at present, and, as things point now, it does not seem that the Farmer rule in Ontario will be an enormous success. Higher education is essential to good government. As a rule, when a man acquires higher education he ceases to be a laborer and becomes, if not a capitalist, at least a man of some leisure. And if educated men are to rule, then labor cannot rule. Though he may be unwilling to admit it, the secret desire and aim of every man, laborer or otherwise, is to be a capitalist. Under labor rule, the unions would have control of their members, of the members of Parliament, and they would run the country as they saw fit; moreover, their organization would control the vote, and they could hold the reins of office as long as they liked, perpetually it suited them. There is danger of our home government being controlled from abroad through the unions.

Bradshaw, supporting Stevens in the affirmative, elaborated the benefits to be derived from a labor party in Canada. Not a labor government, but a labor party is what she wants. There would be benefits of two kinds under labor party influence: Benefits to the state, and benefits to the people. The state would have a sense of security through exemption from fear of Bolshevism. Labor, having a separate party of its own, would have a deeper sense of its responsibility, and would be very careful not to tarnish its name by entangling alliances with "Reds" and other violent elements. The benefits to the people would be many. The aims of organized labor are internationalism, to further world interests and education. Moreover, the labor party would encourage government control for distribution, and thus eliminate profiteering.

It would do away with Bolshevism. In Russia, where there was no labor party, there is bloody revolution. In England, where there is a labor party, there is comparative quiet. Ballantyne, last speaker for the negative, declared that there is absolutely no need for a labor party. The laborer who is well-educated realized that he is the backbone of the country; he knows that through an organized labor party "Reds" and Bolshevists would be able to climb into Parliament under the name of labor representatives, on the vote of the uneducated masses, and here would rule in a most disastrous manner. The party that wants a labor division is not sane labor, but hysterical agitators. Russia tried them out. Winnipeg tried them out. There is no guarantee that, under their rule, Canada would not end in a similar manner. All classes are suffering more or less from disorder following the war. Labor no more than any other class, and labor is striking and endangering our economic existence while the country is on an unsound basis. Labor tied up the railways in England to try to force the government to let them out of bearing their share of the war's burdens.

Stevens, in an excellent rebuttal, affirmed that if the finances of Canada are bad, it is due to the self-interest of the government. The average member of Parliament does as he is told by the "boss"; this is the reason Ontario elected Farmers at the last election, to try out men whom they could trust to rule in the best interests of the province, and not to again burden the province with professional politicians. Labor follows agitators through fear of unemployment alone, and for no other reason. "Reds" are not their ideal, they only listen to them, because they see no other way. The Winnipeg strike was due to lack of employment. And what did the government do about it? Profiteering is due to government lack of control. British labor is on the right track, and they are getting their representation by peaceful means.

Dr. Tait immediately gave his decision. The debate was very close, and the speaking was excellent on both sides. The affirmative won the debate. Stevens was particularly good in his rebuttal. He has the two essential qualities of earnestness and sincerity. Bradshaw has a quiet manner that inspires confidence. Walters is very clear, his points were all well taken, and his diction was excellent. Ballantyne has confidence in his delivery, but his material showed very slight lack of preparation. In closing his remarks, Dr. Tait said that debating is not taken seriously enough at McGill. It is essential that more interest be awakened, and that, if possible, intercollegiate debates be revived, because, after all, debating is more in line with what a man comes to college to acquire than football, and will be of more use to him in later life.

The meeting was then thrown open to general discussion, which was very animated, and which lasted until well after ten o'clock. The various remarks were not confined solely to the labor party, but touched on immigration, Farmer government in Ontario, the noticeable lack of restlessness on the part of Quebec labor, a dig at French Canadians, and a most eloquent and earnest retort to this dig, as well as severe criticism of the government policy in regard to internment of aliens, and the treatment of returned soldiers. This meeting, although it was very small in point of numbers, was by far the most interesting that has been held by the "Lit" this year. A certain informality was established among those

MEETING OF HOCKEY CLUB MONDAY NIGHT

General Meeting At Five O'clock.

PRACTICE TUESDAY.

McGill Team Will Play Against All Important Universities.

An innovation will be made in the meetings of the Arts Seniors, when the next meeting is held in the Union, next Tuesday evening, at 8.15 o'clock. The gathering of the Arts '20 men will take place in one of the rooms in the Union building, and several questions of importance to the students will be discussed. A short entertainment will be provided and, at the end of the meeting, refreshments will be served by a caterer.

One of the principal questions to come up for consideration will be that of the attendance rule at lectures. It is felt by many that this rule should be abolished in Arts, as far as the upper year men are concerned, and an expression of opinion, probably followed by a resolution to the faculty, will be the result. Questions concerning the graduation exercises will also be put before the members of the class, and it is probable that an attempt will be made to have a single convocation for the graduating students at the end of this session.

All of the seniors are asked to keep the above date open so that all attendance may be had at the meeting.

inute profiteering. It would do away with Bolshevism. In Russia, where there was no labor party, there is bloody revolution. In England, where there is a labor party, there is comparative quiet.

Ballantyne, last speaker for the negative, declared that there is absolutely no need for a labor party. The laborer who is well-educated realized that he is the backbone of the country; he knows that through an organized labor party "Reds" and Bolshevists would be able to climb into Parliament under the name of labor representatives, on the vote of the uneducated masses, and here would rule in a most disastrous manner.

The party that wants a labor division is not sane labor, but hysterical agitators. Russia tried them out. Winnipeg tried them out. There is no guarantee that, under their rule, Canada would not end in a similar manner. All classes are suffering more or less from disorder following the war. Labor no more than any other class, and labor is striking and endangering our economic existence while the country is on an unsound basis. Labor tied up the railways in England to try to force the government to let them out of bearing their share of the war's burdens.

Stevens, in an excellent rebuttal, affirmed that if the finances of Canada are bad, it is due to the self-interest of the government. The average member of Parliament does as he is told by the "boss"; this is the reason Ontario elected Farmers at the last election, to try out men whom they could trust to rule in the best interests of the province, and not to again burden the province with professional politicians. Labor follows agitators through fear of unemployment alone, and for no other reason. "Reds" are not their ideal, they only listen to them, because they see no other way. The Winnipeg strike was due to lack of employment. And what did the government do about it? Profiteering is due to government lack of control. British labor is on the right track, and they are getting their representation by peaceful means.

Dr. Tait immediately gave his decision. The debate was very close, and the speaking was excellent on both sides. The affirmative won the debate. Stevens was particularly good in his rebuttal. He has the two essential qualities of earnestness and sincerity. Bradshaw has a quiet manner that inspires confidence. Walters is very clear, his points were all well taken, and his diction was excellent. Ballantyne has confidence in his delivery, but his material showed very slight lack of preparation. In closing his remarks, Dr. Tait said that debating is not taken seriously enough at McGill. It is essential that more interest be awakened, and that, if possible, intercollegiate debates be revived, because, after all, debating is more in line with what a man comes to college to acquire than football, and will be of more use to him in later life.

The meeting was then thrown open to general discussion, which was very animated, and which lasted until well after ten o'clock. The various remarks were not confined solely to the labor party, but touched on immigration, Farmer government in Ontario, the noticeable lack of restlessness on the part of Quebec labor, a dig at French Canadians, and a most eloquent and earnest retort to this dig, as well as severe criticism of the government policy in regard to internment of aliens, and the treatment of returned soldiers. This meeting, although it was very small in point of numbers, was by far the most interesting that has been held by the "Lit" this year. A certain informality was established among those

GIRLS ENJOY DAY TEACHING IN MONTREAL

Section "B" Taught in City Schools Yesterday.

AMUSING INCIDENTS.

Girls Return With Smiling Faces Telling Stories of a Well Spent Day.

When tea was about half over yesterday thirty-five girls from Section "B" of the Model Teachers caused everybody to look round as they went to the tables reserved for them at the top of the dining hall. Not a few noticed the rosy cheeks caused by the cooler weather, but everybody was struck by their happy smile which indicated they had been enjoying themselves.

Their absence was first noticed at breakfast when three tables with used dishes on them gave a bare appearance to the dining hall. The girls, accompanied by Dear Laird and Mr. Stanton, left yesterday morning for Montreal about a quarter to eight. They occupied a special car reserved for them. Everybody was silent on the way to the city because all were reviewing their lesson plans, as the days work consisted of teaching pupils themselves and observing methods of instructing others.

On arrival in Montreal the party divided into three groups, going to their assigned schools, which were Fairmount, Edward VII. and William Dawson. An amusing incident occurred at the corner of Bleury and St. Catherine streets where they were changing cars. One of the girls not accustomed to cities was making a dash for a street car when she collided with a fat gentleman, with the result that they both rolled over in the street. No injury resulted, but a hearty laugh was enjoyed by the spectators.

Those who taught classes had many amusing stories to tell about replies given by the pupils and other incidents. One of the girls, giving a lesson on the horse, asked the pupils what a horse eats, was told by a little boy "anything, but poison." Another teacher had a good laugh on herself when she was finding out from her pupils if they understood the measurements which she had been explaining. Pointing to her head she asked the class if anyone could tell her what part of them was an inch. A bright lad put up his hand and replied saying: "I know miss, your brain." It sounded as if one of the girls was trying to murder her lesson in French, because when she went to say "BE-acute," she said "BE-executioner." As some pupils in another class were looking at pictures of horses the teacher explained that the backbone extended into the tail which was covered with hair, which caused the remark: "I can see some hair, but I can't see the bone." Many other stories were told by the girls of happenings in the class rooms.

On the return trip everybody was happy except one who lost her purse in the train. The trip to town was much enjoyed. Much experience was gained by all, and everybody concluded it was a splendid day.

BIG BUN FIGHT ON SECOND FLOOR

Girls Exercise Head, Limbs and Stomach—Mostly Stomach.

"Help yourselves!" "Dig in, fellows!" "Go to the mince pie, Matty!"

Such was heard at the big feed last night, on the second floor, where twenty gathered to partake—and we sure partook! Who wouldn't be gay?—even in dry (?) Quebec, there is grape juice!

Gee, the girls look fetching (their own s-p-o-o-n-s).

The chief feature in the entertainment line was the Butcher Knife Dance (this was strictly the very latest) done gracefully by Mac. It requires great skill of eyes. Hers will never be the same, Watch!

The other numbers included the Somersault Parade, led by little Chrissy. In this race, Martha came out first, with Min a close second. They were both given lemon-ade (first aid).

During the evening, some of the cats disappeared, but after a diligent search were found under Mac's chair. Immediately she was stood on her head in the corner.

The "Slater Love" and "Angel Face" then held an interesting boxing match, on which huge betting was done. We'll let you guess who won.

The hostesses were particularly charming, Helen wearing her pale blue with swan-down, and Yvonne in pink with chicks trimming!

Well, all vote this the feed of the season!

STUDENTS ENJOY ORGAN RECITAL

Mr. Geo. N. Brewer Gives Musical Entertainment in Assembly Hall.

Macdonald students were fortunate to be entertained last night with an Organ Recital by Mr. Geo. N. Brewer. Mr. Brewer was visiting the college in connection with the Macdonald College Club, but when requested to favor the students with a few selections on the pipe organ, he very readily consented, though it meant a strenuous evening for him. The student body appreciated his kindness and, if possible, enjoyed the music all the more for this reason. Macdonald students always respond heartily when a good thing is going and Mr. Brewer's programme proved to be the unusual in this respect. The numbers he selected were most appropriate, and the lover of music revelled in an hour's real pleasure.

The first selection was a Choral Prelude: "Sleepers Awake, a Voice is Calling" J. S. Bach. This was followed by: "Schurgo" (from Symphony No. 4) C. N. Widor. Prelude to "Lohengrin," R. Wagner. A Dramatic piece, a Prelude to the Allegory connected with the Holy Grail and "Toccata" (from Symphony No. 1) C. M. Widor. This proved to be the most popular selection of the evening, and the students would not let Mr. Brewer go without hearing some more.

For an encore he chose: "Andante Cantabile" (from Symphony No. 4) C. M. Widor. When he had completed this selection Mr. Brewer asked the audience if they could stand some more. The response came so heartily and in such volume affirmatively that it left him no other option than to respond with another.

Fugue in D J. S. Bach. Unfortunately time, which the students are all beginning to regard as an enemy, interrupted the evening's pleasure and they were compelled to return to the residence and "study hour." But each student went away feeling that music is one of the big things in life and for an evening's real enjoyment and pleasure it is hard to beat.

NOTICES.

Any Freshman who has not yet received his class pin from Williams, is requested to call at Room 18, as he has only two left.

Mr. Stanton will continue his Saturday morning lecture on "Musical Appreciation" in the day school this coming Saturday. As large an attendance as possible is requested. Let Mr. Stanton know just how well he is appreciated.

The "Leadings" Rifle Club will hold their weekly practice to-night at 6:45 o'clock. C. Drummond and R. L. Wurzburg will be in charge of the butts. They will procure the keys from the office before five o'clock and return them Saturday morning. The members in charge will be responsible. They must maintain proper range discipline and see that the rifles are properly cleaned and oiled after the practice.

The Freshmen-Sophomore debate scheduled for December 3rd has been postponed until Friday evening, December 5th, because the Quebec Pomological Society are holding an exhibition in the Assembly Hall on December 3rd and 4th.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE? A correspondent expresses the general feeling of the spectators at the exciting basketball game between the Seniors and Sophomores on Wednesday night!

Sir,—May I venture to put forward a suggestion through your columns? On Tuesday night a great crowd of enthusiastic spectators, in the men's gymnasium, were greatly delighted watching the thrilling inter-class game of basketball between the Seniors and Sophs. All the time there was a continuous applause issuing forth in many ways, whilst now and then, above the din, could be heard the united efforts of a few, yelling "SCORE!" Never was the reply audible to those above; how could it be?

Surely some contrivance, such as the simple scoring board, could be placed in a prominent position, just to enable those who nobly yelled "score" so often, to yell their applause more forcibly? I am sure this would be appreciated by all who were, like me,

"A SPECTATOR."

It is hoped that the score board will be in position for the next game—with a man on the job.

FEATURES OF DINING HALL AT MACDONALD

Seating Arrangement of Boys and Girls Explained.

MANY ADVANTAGES.

Macdonald's dining hall is one of the big features in a student's life at this college. To the less observant of us this is not very apparent, but the professors will all say what an advantage it is in the bringing out of the individual. They will tell you that they can quickly see a change, the rounding off of the rough corners of the average student after a time spent at Macdonald. The dining hall plays a very important part in this finesse.

Under the present system the boys sit at the same tables as the girls, in proportion to the numbers of each student body. Now we have roughly an average of seven or eight girls to every four boys. To prevent the formation of "cliques" the tables are assigned for a period of two weeks or more. Thus we have one group sitting at a certain table for this period, just long enough to get well acquainted. The tables are changed and each student finds himself or herself at a new table with an entirely different lot of students. They may be, and in many cases are, all strangers, each as different individually as students only can be. New acquaintances are immediately made and the new table sorts themselves out to enjoy the next two weeks as much as possible.

This system of mingling, the boys with the girls, is beneficial to the student in many ways. To begin with, it has a strong influence in wearing off the shyness and reserve. Many of us came from rural districts and this backwardness is our heritage. Not that this is any particularly criminal characteristic to possess, but it is a slight disadvantage to anyone who must take a place in public, and students must be prepared to come into the public eye. This continual mixing with strangers of both sexes is an ideal way to train us to feel at ease in any situation, to converse freely with strangers, and it trains the mind to assert itself on all occasions. Anyone accustomed to globe-trotting will realize what an advantage this is to any individual. The students are also training themselves unconsciously to perceive the other fellows viewpoint. This in itself is quite an accomplishment; suffice to say that we can all appreciate a sympathetic listener. This will do more to help us to expand our own view points and have them welded into a sound general principal than will anything else.

Conversationaly we are also improving unconsciously. Given cats, women and men brought together under such favorable circumstances, and tongues are bound to wag. They can't help themselves, and we find topics of the weightiest moment of the day boiled down and discussed along with the latest fun from "Punch" or the "London Opinion."

Nor is our relationship in the dining hall confined merely to individual culture, mentally and physically. One glance in the door will convince the most casual observer that there is a deep current of pleasure pervading the atmosphere. When bright eyes look into bright eyes across the table the only reaction will be a smile and it is no chemical reaction this. A burst of laughter from the left, as a witty student pulls a joke, would convince the blind that enjoyment is stalking about, filling the hall with its presence. From the number of "Feeds" taking place one would judge that, enjoyment was the predominant feature; but, though we may not know it, this dining hall atmosphere is fitting us to become outstanding figures in any walk of life after we leave our Alma Mater. Let us make the most of it, for it is one of the big things to look back upon when intimate relations with the college have ceased.

SKI CLUB WAITING FOR SNOW TO COME

As has been mentioned in a former issue, there will probably be a Winter Carnival held here this winter, such as Dartmouth and her sister colleges have held in the past. With all the facilities that present themselves around Montreal and the vicinity for winter sport, McGill can hold a carnival that will easily surpass any held in the past.

From time to time throughout the winter there will be inter-faculty skiing events, and various novelties will give all the men an opportunity to participate in competitive skiing. The McGill Ski Club is going to be felt, and it's going to be deservedly popular. All that is needed now is the snow; the club has all the rest of the essentials for a bumper winter.

PLAN PROPOSED TO AID STUDENTS

Payment For Victory Bonds Made Easier—Opportunity To Buy More.

A very magnanimous, and at the same time a very sensible proposition, has been put forward by a gentleman in the City with the purpose of giving all McGill students an opportunity to become subscribers to the Victory Loan. Realizing that some of the students may have been deterred from purchasing bonds by the difficulty of obtaining all of the purchase price at once, he has purchased a $50 bond for each student of McGill University and deposited them with the Sun Trust Company. To obtain one of these bonds, all that is necessary is to make application during the next month and upon payment of the very nominal price of $5, arrangements will be made with the Trust Company to enable him to meet the balance of his payments. The initial deposit must not be less than 10 per cent of the value of the bond, but payments up to any amount of the purchase price will be in order.

This scheme should commend itself to a large number of students who, for one reason or another, were unable to subscribe for any bonds in the campaign just concluded, and its obvious advantages will be clear to all. The gentleman responsible for this well-conceived plan calls himself "a lover of Old McGill," and indeed he has chosen a very helpful, as well as a thoroughly patriotic way of showing his regard for the University and its students.

This is an opportunity too valuable to be missed, and every McGill man, whether or not he has already subscribed for bonds, should avail himself of it, not only as a matter of good business, but also in order that McGill's total subscriptions may be still further increased. Applications should be made as soon as possible by intending purchasers to the Sun Trust Company, 99 St. James Street, City.

MUCH INTEREST IN BASKETBALL

Executive Meet To Make Arrangements For Season.

The executive of the McGill Basketball Club held a brief session in the McGill Union last evening.

Reports on the Faculty practices to date were heard and proved to be most encouraging. There is an abundance of new and good material, while prospects for the old boys coming out are of the best. The nucleus for this year's teams has been selected, and next week will see them settling down to hard work.

To take full advantage of available time, there will be two squads of equal rating, these to practise twice weekly. In Monday's publication of the "Daily," the names of those constituting the respective squads will be announced.

Word has been received from Macdonald to the effect that they are desirous of entering the Inter-faculty League. The club is very appreciative of this interest, and hopes that some arrangement to this effect may be brought about when the final arrangements are made at a later date.

Dr. Lamb's inter-class games are already under way, and the officials for this Saturday's games will be Messrs. Kern, Lashley, Perreault and Hay, of the club. Dr. Lamb's great efforts in this work are highly commendable, and it is hoped the student body will continue the great enthusiasm already shown.

It has been learned that apart from other duties, Shag will assist during available time. So with his, and the services of Dr. Lamb, Art Walsh and an efficient executive, no effort will be spared toward keeping up to McGill's old standard.

Four games will be played on Saturday between the following teams, at the hours indicated:

11.00 a.m.—Arts '23, Division 1 vs. Arts '23, Division 2.
2.00 p.m.—First Year Medicine, Division '2, vs. Science '23, Sections A and B.
3.00 p.m.—Med. '23 vs. Science '23, Sections C and D.
6.15 p.m.—First Year Medicine, Division 1, vs. Science '22.
The schedule for Arts '22, Commerce '22 and Dentistry '23 will be played next week.

The Gym. periods will be held as usual at the following hours on Saturday:
Arts '23, Division 1, at 10.30 a.m.
Arts '23, Division 2, at 11.15 a.m.
Arts '22 and Commerce '22 and '21, at 12.00 noon.
Science '22, at 5.15 p.m.

MACCABEAN CIRCLE.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Maccabean Circle will be held on Sunday afternoon in the Royal Arcanum Chambers sharp at 2.30 o'clock. An interesting programme has been arranged and all members should do their best to be there.

GYMNASTIC CLUB.

The first work-out of the Gymnastic Club will be held Saturday at the Y.M.C.A. There will be a meeting immediately afterwards to decide on the policy of the club for the year. It is hoped that there will be a large turnout and that gymnastics will become one of the major sports of the college. Time—4 o'clock sharp.
